Based in New York, Bharadwaj serves as the Chair of Day Pitney's Artificial Intelligence Committee. She is a partner in the firm's Technology, Telecommunications, and Outsourcing practice group and a member of the Data Privacy, Protection, and Litigation practice group. As Chair of the AI Committee, Bharadwaj is instrumental in developing the firm's policy on responsible use of generative AI tools and spearheads cross-departmental efforts to promote the adoption of such tools within the firm. As an extension of her technology practice, she counsels clients on various aspects of AI, including structuring and negotiating generative AI product terms, advising on M&A and other corporate and commercial transactions involving companies that use AI-based products, and developing AI policies.

Bharadwaj's practice focuses on complex transactions and strategic advice involving technology, data, and intellectual property. She represents national and global corporations, as well as emerging companies, across industries including technology, energy and utilities, healthcare and life sciences, financial services, telecommunications, manufacturing, fashion, and consumer products. She has extensive experience structuring and negotiating multiyear, multimillion-dollar agreements for the development, licensing, outsourcing, procurement, and delivery of business-critical technology and services, and advises on mergers, acquisitions, joint ventures, strategic alliances, and financings involving technology and data-driven businesses. Her work regularly involves AI, data analytics, e-commerce and digital media, blockchain, digital assets and Web3, and other emerging technologies.

Bharadwaj is a member of the South Asian Bar Associations of New York and New Jersey, where she has held leadership roles, and she actively mentors lawyers and entrepreneurs within the South Asian community. Fluent in English and Hindi, she earned her LL.M. from The George Washington University Law School, her B.A.L. L.L.B. from University Law College, Bangalore University, and a Postgraduate Diploma in Intellectual Property Rights Law from the National Law School of India University. She is admitted to practice in New York and India.
