

June 16, 2026

As South Florida's Wealth Grows, So Do the Risks in Cross-Border Deals

As South Florida cements its status as a global destination for wealth and investment, the stakes in cross-border transactions continue to rise.

In an article for Daily Business Review, Miami Partners Manuel Garcia-Linares and Juan Delgado discuss how the influx of international capital is driving more complex deals and, in turn, more sophisticated disputes. The authors note that differences in legal systems, regulatory requirements, and enforcement mechanisms can create significant challenges when deals go awry. Their article underscores a critical lesson for investors: when cross-border deals are involved, the decisions made at the negotiating and drafting stage often determine the outcome long before a dispute begins.

Read the full article here.

Authors

Manuel A. Garcia-Linares
Partner

Miami, FL | (305) 373-4021
mgarcialinares@daypitney.com

Juan P. Delgado
Partner

Miami, FL | (305) 373-4081
jdelgado@daypitney.com