Overview

Heather Feingold advises clients on energy regulatory matters, focusing on transactional and compliance activities involving generating companies and investors before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC). Heather provides guidance on mergers, acquisitions, divestitures, power sale authorizations, reporting obligations for project companies and investors, and transaction planning. Heather has extensive experience in the electric sector, having worked on numerous investment matters, including the acquisition and sale of generators across various fuel classes, such as solar, wind, natural gas, and cogeneration. She also supports FERC periodic reauthorization proceedings for both portfolio-wide and individual generating companies.
